Lost and Missing in Indian Country
www.lostandmissinginindiancountry.com

What should you do if you believe someone you know has gone missing?

If you believe someone you know has gone missing, file a police report with local law enforcement. Provide the police with a photo of the missing person, along with any identifiers, such as scars, marks, tattoos, jewelry or clothing he/she was last seen wearing. Remember to write down the case number and the name of the officer who took the report. Also, contact us to assist you with the case. It is NEVER too early.

Contact friends and acquaintances, check hospitals and coroners in the area. Check the local county jail, and social media sites. Also put up fliers with the missing persons photograph and description.

It is recommended you not list your phone number on public posters, as to ensure no hoaxes for reward money, or any other harrassment occurs. The phone number to the police department should be used.

Remember to ask people to spread the word, alert the local media, and consider hiring a private investigator.

In September, Lost and Missing in Indian Country was invited to the 3rd Annual Tribal Governments Program Summit and Janet Franson was blessed to be a speaker! Janet learned so much and met so many wonderful people!

In this process, Lost and Missing in Indian Country is focusing on where we want to see LMIC in the future and how to help the community of those that are lost and missing.

We have some things in the works, and will be sharing with all of you when we get some things finalized.
If you have any ideas on where you think

Missing and Unidentified Statistics?

The number of unidentified and missing persons in the U.S., as of October 2, 2018, are as follows: 12,258 open cases of unidentified persons, and 14,818 open cases of missing persons.

If you have a missing relative and his/her DNA is not currently in NamUs, and would CONSENT to giving a sample please contact us.

National Missing & Unidentified Persons System

Who can create a missing persons case in NamUs?

Anyone can enter a case, after becoming a registered NamUs user. The case will be verified as an active missing persons case with law enforcement prior to information being published on the site.

If a missing persons report is filed with a local law enforcement agency, do they automatically post it to NamUs?

Although it's encouraged, this is not required. NamUs provides an opportunity for the general public to assist in solving cases by uploading case information into this national data system.

How can users improve the chances that their loved one will be found?

Law enforcement agencies need as much information as possible when trying to solve cases.

- Contact information for the missing person's dentist so dental records can be obtained
- Fingerprints (Did the missing person ever get a background check with fingerprints?)
- DNA Samples - For example: a personal item that will provide DNA (hairbrush, toothbrush, etc.) or DNA samples from family members that can be submitted for DNA analysis
- Good, clear photos of the missing person
